Tarcon - Berehoff Wedding Vows Exchanged

St. Paul's United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 29th, when Nancy Berehoff, daughter of Mrs. Michael Berehoff and the late Mr. Berehoff, was united in marriage to Mr. Steven Tarcon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tarcon.

World Health Planners

These two MD's whose homelands in Africa and Latin America are continents apart were recently the moving forces in Geneva, Switzerland in the planning of a global health program for next year.

Presiding over an assembly of public health specialists from 120 nations that chartered the World Health Organization's future programs was Dr. Moses Adekunle Majekodunmi, Nigeria's health minister - the first assembly president elected from the newly independent African nations.

Here, Dr. M. G. Candau, Brazilian WHO chief, talks to him against a background of the WHO flag as the assembly recessed briefly. During the three-week session, Dr. Candau, world-wide health program administrator, won election to his third five-year term as WHO Director-General, beginning July 20.

To finance some 800 projects around the earth, the International experts biked the 1964 health agency budget to $34 million, an increase of 7.5 per cent over this year's figure. Slightly more than $13 million, the largest sum allotted to a single project, goes to wipe out malaria, since 1955 a main aim of the health planners. WHO's global program is run through six regional offices. In the Americas, the office is the Pan American Sanitary Bureau Washington, D. C.

Coleman Collieries Coal Orders for Japan Increased

(cp) - T. J. Ewart, manager of the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company, Friday, said the 100,000-ton sale of coal to a Japanese steel company will see the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company deliver 40,000 tons and the Coleman Collieries deliver 50,000 tons.

The 10,000-ton purchase announced recently by Shashi Furuya, general sales manager for Nippon Kokan, one of the "big three" companies of the Japanese steel, is over and above the 400,000 long tons of Canadian coal the Japanese steel mills contracted to take earlier this year.

Native Canadian Featured on TV

Saul Terry, 21-year-old full blooded Indian of the Lillooet (B.C.) tribe will be featured on CBC's 20-20 program, Sunday, August 11. Saul is learning to be a printer and the half hour show "Frontier Newspaper" tells about the paper where he is learning his trade.

Dan Murray, publisher of The Alaska Highway News of Fort St. John, B. C., which is a member of the CWNA, said that Saul has a pleasant personality and makes an apt pupil.

"If one CWNA publisher in 10 took on an Indian apprentice, I'm sure that it would give a terrific boost to the moral and community status of our red brethren. Too often we have unjustly classified them as second class citizens," Mr. Murray said.

The national show explores the heartaches and fun in publishing a weekly newspaper in the Peace River country.

Pipeline Work Starts In Savannah Field

Crews of workmen commenced work this week installing some 18 miles of one and one-half to two-inch pipeline to tie in one flow line to the distribution system.

This work is the beginning of a distribution system that will tie in some seven or eight wells in the Savannah Creek field.

In charge of installation are Bill Anderson and Lionel Larson.

Big Game Bag Limits And Dates

Alberta's Department of Lands and Forests has just released its Circular No. R. 12 which declares the bag limits and season dates for all big game in the province.

The hunting seasons in which big game may be taken generally lie between August 31 and December 21. The dates vary depending on the species of animal and the hunting zone.

The province is divided into 24 zones and three special areas for the purposes of managing the annual harvest of big game.

Exceptions are elk, which may be taken as late as March 14th, 1964, in the Waterton Lakes area and bear, which have an additional special spring season from April 1 - June 13, 1964, in the forested areas. In the settled areas, north of the Bow River, the bear season is open all year round. There are also special licences and tags for the hunting of antelope, antlered mule deer in specified areas.

Archers get a break in Zone 8, which lies adjacent to Highway No. 1 from Calgary to Banff, with the season stretching from August 31, to December 31 for deer, moose and elk, and to October 28th for sheep and goat.

Museum to Feature Bibles

The Christian Reformed Church in Bellevue have announced this week that the Museum in the premises at the rear of the Wayside Chapel at Passburg will be officially opened on July 27th. Plans are presently being made for the occasion and one of the guest to be present at the affair will be Mr. Ackerman, director of the World Home Bible League of Chicago. The "World Home Bible League have provided all of the Bibles and are sponsoring two rooms in the Museum.

The building was purchased last year by the Christian Reformed Church in Bellevue and since members of the Church have been putting in much time remodeling the old dwelling and converting the building into a museum. The Museum has a complete Bible arrangement displaying Bibles from every country in the world. Braille Bibles will also be displayed in the near future.

The committee in charge of the museum are now planning on including a souvenir sales section in the building where visitors can obtain small items as souvenirs of their visit to the Museum and Wayside Chapel. Any monies derived from the sale of articles will be used for the Museum Building fund. The Museum will be open every day from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. except Sundays for the present.

Surprise Farewell Party Held

Mrs. Mary Fauville was pleasantly surprised on Wednesday evening July 10th when a number of her neighborhood lady friends gathered at her home for a farewell surprise party. She was presented with a corsage by Bobbie Kulig which was made by Pauline Baccus.

The evening was enjoyed by an assortment of games which brought laughter and merriment to all after which a lovely lunch was served by the ladies in attendance.

A beautiful gift of a sugar and cream set and a sovereign coffee spoon was presented to Mrs. Fauville by Bobbie Kulig on behalf of the group assembled, for which she ably expressed her thanks.

Mrs. Fauville and family will be leaving shortly to join her husband who has secured employment in Lethbridge.

Crows Nest Pass Music Society Formed

A group of interested persons gathered in Blairmore last week and formed the Crows Nest Pass Music Society and plans were discussed to incorporate the Society under the Societies Act.

Primary purpose of the nucleus committee is to raise funds to meet the budgets of the Three Crows Nest Pass Music groups - the Crows Nest Pass Band, the Crows Nest Pass Symphony Orchestra, and the Crows Nest Pass chorus and any other cultured music groups that may be formed later.

Since only a nucleus committee has been formed to start the ball rolling on this very worthwhile group, service clubs and other groups are expected and will be welcomed to participate and aid the committee in their future fund raising ventures and also to assist financially.

The music groups, the Band, the Chorus and the Symphony Orchestra operate completely independent of the Society whose only function will be to look after the requisitions the various music groups present to the Society.

Membership cards for the Society are being printed and memberships into the group although contributory start at two dollars.

Plans are already being discussed by the Society to hold three concerts in the Pass towns one to be held in the Isabelle Sellon School Auditorium in Blairmore and one in the McEachern Elementary Auditorium in Bellevue and one in the Coleman School Auditorium when the building is completed this fall.

The slate of officers elected to head the group are: President Erickson of Blairmore, vice president, Horace Allen of Coleman, secretary, Bill Johnson of Blairmore, and treasurer, Bill Johnson of Coleman. A twelve man board of Directors has also been appointed to represent all of the Pass communities.

Eclipse Of Sun July 20, 1963

The July 20 eclipse of the sun will be visible over most of Alberta, but when watching it be careful or you may permanently injure your eyes.

This warning has been issued by the Public Information Service of the Alberta Optometric Association which notes that viewers of past eclipses have suffered permanent retinal damage as a direct result of failure to safeguard the eyes.

Sun glasses do NOT provide adequate protection, and neither does old trick of looking at the eclipse through a piece of smoked glass.

Dr. Bruce Redmond - chairman - Public Relations Committee, of the Alberta Association, points out that there is only one recommended way to view an eclipse -

"View the eclipse through piece of blank photographic film. This should be over-exposed on its entire surface and then developed. The best method is to unravel a roll of new black-and-white film in the daylight or in ordinary room light. Then re-roll it and have it developed in the ordinary way."

Dr. Redmond advises against using an old, exposed negative.

This, he says, is because dark objects on the picture will show clear on the negative, allowing the burning rays of the sun to penetrate the eyes.

"One recent example of extensive retinal damage due to eclipse was on April 8, 1960," says Dr. Redmond. "On that occasion, in Australia, 170 persons suffered permanent injury. They were principally children."

More than 350,000 tons of raw and fabricated steel a year are purchased by General Motors of Canada.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills) HERE WE GO AGAIN

Once more our house is in an uproar. My family is preparing to go to the summer cottage for the season. For some reason I can't quite fathom it is necessary to leave our house spotless — so that I can have a summer to mess it up in.

Of course, it is just possible my wife hopes that this year it will be different; that she will leave it spotless and find it the same when she returns. I don't think that is her motive.

Actually, if the family were to return this fall and find that I had been a tidy housekeeper, that everything was in good shape, there would be disappointment. A man is supposed to be a lousy housekeeper. No woman would admit it, but they'd be bitterly disappointed if they found no stains behind the sink, no ashtrays loaded with butts, no unmade beds or undusted corners.

Well, my wife can relax. I'll not disturb any of the dust. There will be stains behind the sink and in it. I will conform, just as most other husbands do.

I have the same plans for this summer that I have had for centuries. I am going to get some work done. I will be able to write superb prose in a quiet house, perhaps three or four short stories or a best-selling novel. And if the muse is very kind, maybe a poem. And with only myself to cook for, there will be thick, juicy steaks and other delights.

That, at least, is the plan. If it works out the way it has done in other years, Steinbeck needn't be worried, but the Fort Street cafe had better keep a fridge full of steaks. Of course, I have a good excuse. The house will be just too darn quiet. A man raised in noise can't work in absolute stillness. And cooking for one is a bore.

So here we go again. Another summer just like the last one.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills) THE GUESSING GAME

Just as long as governments play such a large part in our lives, Canadians must indulge in a costly guessing game before each federal and provincial budget. With a stroke of the pen, for example, Mr. Gordon increased the price of old homes by about 5 per cent, and the cost of new ones by a similar amount.

The guessing game is a difficult one. — Why did Mr. Gordon choose building material, for example? One might have thought that food, clothing and shelter would be among the last things eyed for tax exploitation. If you bought a house before the budget came out, you did a fine stroke of business; if you put it off, you lost plenty. However, it might have been automobiles, or yachts, or shoes, or something else. There is no telling where the tax axe is going to fall.

The only escape from indiscriminate taxation is to persuade governments to spend less; and to spend what they do more efficiently and effectively. For when governments spend, they must tax in the same degree. The money must come from the people; and the old notion that it is paid only by the rich, or even chiefly by the rich, has now been dispelled. Taxes enter the price structure and we all pay.

The real time to do your guessing about the budget is when there is an election campaign. You can assess the cost of the promised goodies. If promises are kept, you know you will have to pay for them. They will be in the budget somewhere, though only the Finance Minister and his chosen advisors know where. It could be houses or it could be ice skates. But it will be somewhere, — sure as death.

CJLH-TV Reception In the Pass

"Gentlemen:
Please tell me: What have your programs been like lately? In Pincher Creek, Channel 3 viewers like myself haven't a clue. All we see are faint shadows, and these are often obliterated by interference..."

The above letter is similar to several that have arrived recently at CJLH-TV in Lethbridge. All writers are concerned, all are seeking answers to lead them to better TV reception. The reception troubles they mention range all the way from "sparkling noise on sets" to "snowy picture" and "two bands across the picture".

The TV reception problems in the Crows Nest have been the basis of a great deal of concern by CJLH-TV's management and considerable investigation by the station's engineering staff. After a thorough scrutiny by station personnel, the reception problems and the ultimate solutions are now known and documented in a report by CJLH-TV's Chief Engineer, Vic Reed.

Before the report was drafted, a staff of CJLH engineers journeyed to Burnis where the station has erected its re-broadcasting station (where the CJLH-TV signal is picked up, energized and re-transmitted on Channel Three). Several days were spent by the engineering staff in checking out equipment at the $20,000.00 installation. Everything was checked, from the transmitting tower right through to the last tube. The final diagnosis: "The signal is leaving Burnis properly. The trouble lies between the re-broadcasting station and the home receivers".

The engineering staff then criss-crossed the entire Crows Nest Pass searching for clues to the TV reception trouble. The staff found that there is not one problem, but several, and TV reception problems will vary from town to town, from home to home. Most of the problems are not major; an adjustment here and there will correct reception troubles. The problem in your particular area must be ascertained first - following through with the correct solution is then relatively simple.

These solutions are outlined in a report written by CJLH-TV Chief Engineer, Vic Reed, completed July 5th. Following is a copy of this report.

"Some antennas appear to be mounted very low. This is fine during the winter months; however during the summer when the leaves come out on the trees, they tend to absorb some of the signal. If a homeowner's Channel 3 antenna is shielded by a great many trees, the signal on that antenna will drop. A snowy picture is the result. This will probably explain why a great deal of the trouble started cropping up in early summer.

"Since installation of Channel 3 antennas, high winds in the Crows Nest Pass area have taken their toll. Our survey of the area shows a great many antennas twisted; many are turned from their original direction; some have broken and bent elements. Loose elements or partially broken lead-in wires will cause snow or sparkling noise on sets, particularly on windy days. A broken lead-in wire (almost unnoticeable to the naked eye) or a bent element can reduce picture quality by more than 50 per cent.

"Electrical interference is one of the major problems in Blairmore, particularly on the west side of town. This interference appears on the TV screen in the form of two bands, one at the top of the screen, the other band near the bottom. In other areas of the Crows Nest Pass electrical noise produces heavy snow or sparkling on the sets. Severe electrical interference causes the picture to roll.

"In Coleman, in the business district, the CBC radio repeater is causing a herringbone pattern on the TV picture. Both the Department of Transport and the CBC have been contacted, and will take steps to correct it."

As can be seen by the above report, poor TV reception can result from one or a combined number of sources. A TV repair shop is best qualified to diagnose individual reception problems. However if you think the necessary adjustments in your case are minor, the above report may be of considerable help in starting you on the right track to better TV reception.

Lethbridge Exhibits And Rodeo July 24 - 27

For one dollar fair-goers will be able to see it all at once again at Lethbridge and District Exhibition and Rodeo July 24 - 27.

The straight one dollar fee was introduced at the Lethbridge Exhibition last year and it proved to be so popular that the Fair is going to be operated on the same basis again next Wednesday to Saturday.

Here is how it works - Children up to seven years of age are admitted free. Children seven to 14 years of age are charged 50c. Fifteen years and over admission is $1.00.

For the one price a person is admitted into the fair grounds, and from there on there are no additional charges except on the midway if you want to participate in some of the hundreds of action-packed activities.

The one entry fee gives a person entrance to all the fair exhibits, livestock judging competitions horse shows the afternoon grandstand attractions, and also the night rodeo performances before the grandstand. Fair-goers can stay for one hour, or they can stay all day - they can see a few of the attractions, or they can see them all - the price is one and the same.

In addition Friday is children's day at the fair. On that day all youngsters up to 14 years of age will be admitted free, and there will be special prices for all midway rides and shows.

The Lethbridge Milk Foundation is also going to be providing free milk for all the children - all they can drink. The free admission for the seven- to 14-year age group will be in effect until 5:00 p.m. on Friday.

The big southern Alberta agricultural show window, rodeo and exhibition attraction kicks off with the grand parade through Lethbridge's main streets Wednesday at 10 a.m. From then on, it is four action-packed days. During the mornings Lethbridge merchants throughout the city will have special activities going. In the afternoons and evenings an estimated 75,000 south Albertans are expected to visit the fair grounds.

There is the big 4-H show and sale, 4-H thematic displays, 7th International Appaloosa horsemanship, the light horse show, special Hereford breed show, Aberdeen Angus, Shorthorn and dairy cattle judging, along with sheep and swine, commercial and industrial displays, homecraft, night rodeo, and the Art B. Thomas midway.

Cousin Zeke, Buddy Heaton with his famous trained buffalo and many other acts will also be on hand with special entertainment. The exhibition board has spent $6,000 for special lighting for the night rodeo.

See you there!

Motorists Must Watch For Forestry Road Signs

The Hon. Norman Willmore, Minister of Lands and Forests, announces that a general policy affecting public use of forestry roads in the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve became effective June 26.

All roads in the Reserve except dangerous roads to mountain look will be open for public travel without regard for the condition of the road grade. Roads under construction or repair may be closed as conditions warrant. Signs and barricades will advise forest visitors where these conditions prohibit travel.

Previously the Alberta forest service has used a system of periodically opening and closing roads on behalf of weather and road conditions. The new policy which largely ignores these conditions will require travellers to rely heavily upon personal responsibility; they will have to be alert when using rough, undeveloped roads with unexpected hazards and do so at their own risk.

Forest visitors are reminded that the new road policy does not preclude the possibility of forest area closures by the Minister of Lands and Forests in periods of extreme fire hazard. Motorists are asked to heed forestry road signs at all times.
